INDEX

TO THE

EIGHTEENTH VOLUME

OF THE

Weekly Entertainer.

A.

AGRICULTURAL experiment, 1.
Air in dining-rooms, on the ſtate of the, by Dr. Prieſtley, 145.
Alms, Captain James, ſketch of his life, 142.
Anagrams, 420, 492, 517, 612. Anſwers to, 101, 565.
Anecdote of a gentleman and his phyſician, 66. of Demoſthenes, 226. of Marſhal Laudohn, 339. of humanity and reſolution, 466. taken from Addiſon on medals, 491. of a negro ſlave, 501. of the Carthagenians, 578. of a preaching cobler, 617. of the Duke of Monmouth, 634.
Anecdotes of the King and Dr. Johnſon, 5, 38. of Sir Eyre Coote, 267. of Mr. R. Burger, 315. of acts of benevolence, 381. of Charles II. and William Penn, 455. of Charles II. and Lord Shafteſbury, 524. of James Moleſworth Hubard, who has lately committed ſeveral defrauds, under the fictitious names of Lord Maſſey, Duke of Ormond, &c. 569.

B.

Banks, Sir Joſeph, his remarks on the ſubject of bread-fruit, 146.
Belfaſt, declaration of the volunteers and inhabitants at large of that town and neighbourhood, on the ſubject of the French revolution, unanimouſly agreed to at an aſſembly held by public notice on the 14th of July, 1791, Colonel Sharman, Preſident, 232.
Between, on the word, 449.
Bills of exchange, abſtract of the Act of Parliament reſpecting, 95.
Biſhops, ceremonies obſerved on the election of, 110.
Bog and Dnieſter, ſketch of the ſituation of thoſe rivers, 242.
Bon mots, 94, 133, 467.
Bull fight at Madrid, Mr. Townſend's deſcription of a, 129.
Burglary, a new and extraordinary mode of committing, 486.
Burke, Mr. his defence of his own political ſentiments, in which he introduces a character of the Britiſh ſenate, 216.

C.

Caglioſtro, Count, the life of Joſeph Balſamo, commonly ſo called, containing his ſingular adventures from his birth to his impriſonment in the Caſtle of St. Angelo, 389, 411, 429, 462, 502, 531, 664, 619.
Canine madneſs, directions to prevent it by ablution, 345.
Charades, 21, 45, 67, 101, 125, 149, 172, 221, 244, 268, 364, 397, 420, 445, 492, 517, 540, 589, 612, 636. Anſwers to, 43, 44, 99, 100, 123, 244, 268, 292, 316, 363, 397, 444, 467, 516, 540, 564, 612, 636.
Church liturgy, obſervations on, or the ſcruples of a country curate, 25.
Circumſtance, a curious, 144.
Courtſhip, Mr. Long's account of the Indian method of, 522.
Cuſtom, a ſingular, 634.

D.

Domingo, St. ſome account of the produce and trade of that iſland, 521.
Dominica, Mr. Atwood's account of that iſland, 483.
Dreſs, on extravagance in, 363.

E.

Eaſt-Indies, humourous account of news from the, 513.
Eddyſtone Light-houſe, narrative of the deſtruction of the, 393.
Elephant, a remarkable inſtance of ſagacity and premeditated puniſhment for injuries in one, 337.
Enigmas, 21, 45, 67, 125, 173, 245, 293, 341, 364, 420, 468, 517, 541, 613. Anſwers to, 44, 45, 171, 172, 221, 244, 340, 444, 491, 516, 588, 612.
European politics, general review of, 369, 477.

F.

Fact, an extraordinary, 618.
France, King of, his proclamation to all the French on his departure from Paris, 49. the reply of the National Aſſembly, 55. intereſting particulars of the capture of the King and Queen of France, 73. the King's proclamation on his acceptance of the new conſtitution, 375.
France, extracts from a book entitled The Crimes of the Kings of France, from Clovis to Louis XVI. 329.
Francklin, Mr. extracts from his Obſervations made on a Tour from Bengal to Perſia in 1786 and 1787, 8, 88, 111, 138, 207, 253, 311, 352, 405. his account of the tranſactions in Perſia, from the death of Nadir Shah to 1788, 439, 455, 497, 525.
Franklin, Dr. memoirs of his life and writings, 570.

G.

Gamekeepers, on, 258.

H.

Hand-bill, ſingular one, lately ſtuck up in the neighbourhood of Blackheath, Kent, 264.
Happineſs, thoughts on, interſperſed with anecdotes, by the late Jonathan Richardſon, Eſq. 561.
Henry II. Mr. Berrington's deſcription of his perſon and private character, 632.
Hermit of Snowdon, the, or memoirs of Albert and Lavinia, written by himſelf, and found after his death near the place of his retirement, 13, 39, 61.
Hotze, Dr. account of that amiable phyſician, who reſided in the village of Richterſwyl, by Dr. Zimmerman, 508.

Houſe

House fly, a letter respecting the, 504.
Humberstone, Colonel, account of his life and character, 425.
Huntingdon, particulars respecting the late Countess of, 42.

I.

Indians, Mr. Long's account of his own adoption among them, 595.
Iron mask, account of the man with the, 450, 473.
Iron works, Mr. Coxe's account of the works established in Zealand by General Clausen, for casting iron, &c. to supply the Danish army and navy with military stores, 489.

J.

Jesting, on the danger of, 593.
Jews, extracts from Manasseh Ben Israel's defence of them, 273.
Johnson, Dr. Samuel, his letter to Warren Hastings, Esq. 93.

L.

Lackington, James, the well-known bookseller, in Chiswell-street, Moorfields, a sketch of his life, taken from an account of it published by himself, 623.
Linklater, Captain, account of his remarkable escape, while Commander of the Swift brig, 265.
Lodger, history of the discontented, 377.
Lover to his mistress, letter from one, with her answer, 433.
Loughborough, Lord, his charge to the grand jury of Wilts, at the summer assizes, 1791, 188.

M.

Maple sugar, on, 238.
M'Cluer, Captain, some account of his visit to the Pelew Islands, 309.
Michaelmas goose, origin of the, 438.
Mistake, a fortunate, 410.
Money, on the difference between the value of, in England and India, 415.

N.

Norway peasantry, Mr. Coxe's account of them, 511.

O.

Orthography, curious specimens of, 196, 268, 539, 635.

P.

Paine, Thomas, some account of the celebrated, 459.
Paris, account of the revolution at, with an exact recital of what passed in that city, and of the taking of the Bastile, 1, 30.
Persian tale, a, 506.
Phantom, Peter, the complaint of, 225.
Poisons, a concise treatise of, considered in general and particular, by the Rev. J. Morgan, at Egloskerry, Cornwall, 401.
Poland, account of the revolution in, 34.
Political reflections, 78, 262, 579.
Pozz, Dr. an extract from his life, written by James Bozz, Esq. 177.
Price, Dr. extract from Dr. Priestley's funeral discourse on him, 285.
Priestley, Dr. his address to the Jews, on the resurrection of Jesus Christ, 84, 117. his letter to his congregation at Birmingham, 308.
Puns, 66, 243.

Q.

Questions, 45, 101, 124, 197, 221, 268, 340, 420, 445, 468, 492, 589, 636. Answers to, 20, 99, 148, 196, 220, 243, 291, 339, 396, 443, 515, 540, 563, 611.

Rebusses,

R.

Rebuſſes, 20, 67, 149, 196, 197, 221, 292, 364, 445, 468, 493, 517, 565, 589, 636. Anſwers to, 20, 67, 101, 124, 196, 268, 419, 444, 492, 540, 588, 589, 612, 636.
Reflections, 634.
Robertſon, Dr. his hiſtorical diſquiſitions concerning Ancient India, 98.

S.

Sailor, a noble inſtance of heroiſm in one, 338.
Scalping, Mr. Long's account of that horrid practice, 559.
Scheme, a new, 545.
Senſibility, the atonements of, 276, 301, 321.
Silk-worm, Dr. Robertſon's account of the means by which it was introduced into Europe, 465.
Simple ſtory, a, 153, 190, 212, 227.
Slave-trade, account of the enormities committed by the Africans to procure ſlaves for the Europeans engaged in that inhuman traffic, proved by the teſtimony of ſuch as have viſited that continent, 487, 508, 585, 608.
Small beginning, a ſucceſsful, 361.
South Hams of Devon, ſingular cuſtom in the, 418.
Steele, Sir Richard, biographical ſketch of, 81.
Stone, natural curioſity of a, which, like the camelion, has the property of changing its colour in certain circumſtances, 267.
Sugar, Weſt India, and rum, addreſs to the people of Great Britain, on the propriety of abſtaining from thoſe articles, 536, 548.
Sutherland, James, Eſq. particulars reſpecting the late, 201. his petition, 239.

T.

Traveller, the, 416.
Trials, intereſting, 164, 288, 356, 433, 544, 597.
Tude, H. M. de la, memoirs of, containing an account of his confinement thirty-five years in the ſtate priſons of France, and of the ſtratagems he adopted to eſcape, once from the Baſtile, and twice from the Caſtle of Vincennes, with the ſequel of thoſe adventures, written by himſelf, 105, 134, 159, 182, 234, 249, 281, 297, 347, 383.

V.

Verſes. On a ſudden tranſition from a beautiful moon-light to a cloudy and tempeſtuous ſky, 23. the hermitage, a poem; written by the late Rev. Samuel Badcock in 1781, at Caſtle Hill, near Southmolton, the beautiful ſeat of Earl Forteſcue, 23. my native vale, a paſtoral ſong, from the Italian, 24. on hearing in the month of May, that Roſe Drew, Eſq. had eſtabliſhed a Sunday-ſchool for poor children, at Wooton, in Dorſetſhire, 46. deſcription of the fall of the Druids, ibid. a ſonſet, written in the Highlands, by Dr. Downman, 48. lines written extempore on the marriage of John Chapman, Eſq. of Wood-ſtreet, London, to Mrs. Juſtice, of Appleford, Berks, ibid. lines written on viewing the ruins of the ancient city of Rome, 70. a contented mind, 71. on the preſent frequency of duels, 72. on the death of Miſs Seally, 102. on diſcontent, by Peter Pindar, Eſq. 103. on a brother and ſiſter, ſiſter, both extremely handſome, though each blind of an eye, 104. ſtanzas to Flora, by Mrs. M. Robinſon, 124. occaſional prologue by Anthony Paſquin, Eſq. intended to have preceded the play for the benefit of the General Hoſpital at Birmingham, 127. prologue, written in 1781, by the late Rev. Thomas Warton, and ſpoken at the Wincheſter theatre, which adjoins the ſhambles in that town, 128, on the ill effects of ſwathing, by Dr. Downman, 150. lines on poverty, by John Iſaac, drummer to the Eaſt Devon Militia, 152. epigram, ibid. the Indian chief, by E. B. of Exon, 174. an apologue, by Mr. Jerningham, 175. ſonnet to hope, by Miſs Falconer, 176. a ride on Sunday, 198. a ſonnet on the late violent thunder ſtorms, by Miſs Seward, 200. on the marriage of Richard Mudd, ſurgeon, to Miſs Cath. Wheeler, of St. James's-ſtreet, Weſtminſter, ibid. lines on hearing it declared that no women were ſo handſome as the Engliſh, by Mrs. Jerningham, 222. ode on the author's birth-day, Auguſt 11, 1791, by J. K. C. Wookey Hole, Somerſet, 223. lines written by Dr. Crane, of Dorcheſter, 224. lines to the memory of Miſs Ann H—, alluding to ſeveral pictures and drawings, on a ſmall ſcale, the ſubject "Evening," executed by her hand, and ſeen by the writer at her houſe in Middleſex, by Recluſa, 246. lines occaſioned by the lamented death of Mr. Sutherland, 247. ſonnet to human life, as compared with the moon, 248. on the lines of Dr. Crane, of Dorcheſter, inſerted Auguſt 29, 1791, by Pricæi-Amicus, ibid. elegant and pathetic lines on an unfortunate, but deluded girl, who was found dead in Somerſetſhire, in the ſevere winter of 1784, written by an Oxonian, 270. ode to autumn, 271. tranſlation of a popular Pariſian ſong, 272. Horatian philoſophy, by Dr. Aikin, 294. a ſonnet, tranſlated from the Latin, by the Rev. John Weſley, 395. lines occaſioned by his Majeſty's arrival at Weymouth, by Dr. Crane, of Dorcheſter, 296. Pricæi-Amicus in anſwer to Dr. Crane, of Dorcheſter, ibid. addreſs to the nation, occaſioned by a late ſuicide, 317. deſcription of the amuſements annually held by R. E. Balch, Eſq. on a certain part of Quantock Hill, for the purpoſe of forming a ſhooting party, by C. C. near Taunton, 317. to Mr. James Thomſon, on his Seaſons, by William Thomſon, 320. on the approach of winter, by J—s, of Lilkeard, 342. an ode on Cambria, a mountain in Cornwall, 343. the morning walk, by N. of Topſham, 366. ſtanzas to Maria, 367. ſonnet to hope, 368. ſonnet to Shakeſpear, ibid. Tarry Rock, near Aſhburton, by Devonienſis, 398. the ſea ſhore, by Dr. Aikin, 399. on hearing Miſs C play on the harpſichord, by the late celebrated Thomas Chatterton, 400. ode to autumn, by Elizabeth Bentley, the Norwich poeteſs, 422. deſcription of the diverſions held at Crediton fair, the 23d, 24th, and 25th days of Auguſt, 1791, by Richard Gilbert, of Crediton, 423. the complaint, an ode, by Cornubia, 424. Mary Queen of Scots, a monody, written near the ruins of Sheffield Manor, 446. to Miſs Lydia H—, by Clericus, 448. the minor, by N. of Topſham, 471. lines occaſioned by having ſeen a young lady whoſe character had been falſely and cruelly aſperſed, by N. of Topſham, 472. epitaph upon Sir Francis Vere, by Fidelio, of Bath, ibid. melancholy ſtanzas, ſtanzas, 494. ſtanzas to modeſty, 496. a probationary ode for the laureatſhip, by Peter Pindar, Eſq. 518. addreſs to the ſportſman, 520. inſtructions to a porter, by the late Mr. Bedingfield, of Newcaſtle, 542. lines by J. M. of Plymouth-Dock, 543. a midnight ode to wiſdom, by Theocritus, 566. ſtanzas by a lady, 567. ſonnet to night, by Hilaria, 568. lines occaſioned by the death of a very amiable lady, who died ſoon after lying-in, by N. of Topſham, 590. advice to youth, by John Iſaac, of Crediton, a drummer in the firſt regiment of the Devon militia, 591. love and reaſon, a fable, ibid. lines taken from the Arabic, 592. Clifford and Matilda, an hiſtorical ballad, 614. lines written on the window of an alehouſe, 616. on learning, by J. K. C. of Wookey Hole, Somerſet, 638. on the terrors of a guilty conſcience, 639.

V.

Virtue, on progreſſive, by Mr. Logan, 147.

W.

Wedlock, ſome inſtructions requiſite to be followed by men both previouſly to, and after their entering the (when love is tempered with friendſhip) heavenly and honourable ſtate of, 97.

Weſley, Rev. John, character of the late Rev. 259. ſome remarks made by that divine, 362.

Wild cattle, account of a ſpecies formerly very common in this country, 513.